

Young Symphony Orchestra from Zhejiang, CHINA

The orchestra of Zhejiang was officially created in October 2014 in order to get together talented young musicians of the region.

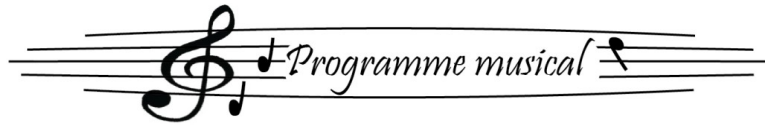

It is linked to the Professional Orchestra of Zhejiang which facilitates the training of young musicians who want to receive a high level music education.

The orchestra regularly plays during high quality concerts under the direction of famous Chinese and international conductors. Its repertory is extremely rich and diverse, composed by classical music, soundtracks and traditional Chinese music.

Gao Jian, conductor

Gao Jian is a young Chinese conductor. He has graduated from the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama. He has played with many prestigious orchestras in Great-Britain, in the United-States and in China. He has also been invited to participate in several international festivals. Today, he conducts the Philharmonic of Shanghai, the Symphony Orchestra of Zhejiang and the Chamber Orchestra of Shanghai.

Classical music and soundtracks

JOHANN STRAUSS : Voices of Spring

JOE HISAISHI : Castle in the Sky (movie)

MOZART : Serenade

VITTORIO MONTI : Czardas (Violin solo : Yuan Shan)

KLAUS BADELDT : Pirates of the Caribbean (movie)

JOHANN STRAUSS : Trisch- Trasch Polka

KENNETH JOSEPH ALFORD : The Bridge on the River Kwai (movie)

DVORAK : New World Symphony 4th mvt

Chinese Traditional Music:

Dance of the Yao People

Good News from Beijing

In A Far Away Land

Flowers

Midsummer Fire

Jasmine Flower